

Chasing the Light

(or “Confessions of a Sunburst Junkie”)

Using his images as examples (of both success and failure), Kieran Metcalfe explores the joys and challenges presented by the different ways light can fall on the landscape.

With images from the Peak District, Snowdonia, Scotland and even further afield, this talk discusses how photographers can best capture and present the character of the light.

Topics include:

- Keeping the sun in the frame
- Sidelighting
- The effect of the atmosphere
- Managing harsh daytime light
- Changing conditions
- Poor and low light
- Blue hour
- Shooting after dark
